This grilling season, there's no need to bust your chops to get the perfect smoked meat. A great option for cooks of all experience levels, the Sonoma Smart Smoker from Lynx Grills features integrated technology to make smoking more convenient and tastier than ever before. Available in three forms – built-in or countertop, freestanding and on a mobile kitchen cart (pictured) – the setup includes an LCD control panel, an instant-read meat probe, 1,000 square inches of cooking space (enough to cook six baby back ribs at once!), and a wood chip box that can smoke for up to eight hours without being reloaded. Summer relaxation has never been easier with this Wi-Fi- and app-enabled smoker, which automatically adjusts temperature and cook time while allowing the chef to check on his food from anywhere in the house – preferably with a cold one in hand.
